

Ask Around!

Put your Question Without an Easy Answer in the centre, and draw on your shared networks.

1

Map possible people. Put people with whom you have a strong relationship closer to you, further away if not as strong. Now look at the checklist at right. Add people who will broaden our thinking.

2

Decide who will talk with whom. Don't leave it theoretical – decide who you will each talk to. Tell them why the question is important to you. Get their opinions, and the experience behind their opinion. Find out how this has shaped their own approach.

Where do I get?

- A different point of view
- Someone else in who has had a go at this already
- Potential allies, who are asking similar questions
- New ideas from people regionally or wider

Our Question
Without an Easy Answer

Local people, easy to get to

More distant people,
may open other networks